What others are saying about Faculty180...

Simple:

"The interface is intuitive and easy for faculty to use, and creating standard or ad hoc reports has been very easy."

"Faculty180 has greatly simplified our data collection and reporting processes."

"The fact that the software has been developed by academic peers who understand the life of a faculty member has made working with the development team so easy. We don't have to explain university jargon or defend the way that academe really works."

"With Faculty180 we can upload data required by the state and produce specific reports to meet the needs of external accrediting agencies. This can all be done quickly."

Accessible:

"University administrators (such as academic chairs and deans) have ready access to important and up-to-date information from faculty."

"Faculty180 allows the University to centralize its faculty credentials data in a secure yet easily accessible online environment."

"Our faculty members prefer having access to their information electronically anytime they have a need for it."

"Faculty have the ability to enter, revise, maintain and print their professional credentials from anywhere they have Internet access."

Time-saving and money-saving:

"We have saved a great deal of time by entering faculty information once and having it there to manipulate in ad hoc reports as we need."

"What we can now do in minutes used to take us days to complete."

"Our faculty members were able to do their annual performance appraisal using Faculty 180—probably saved them at least four hours work each!"

"Faculty180 saved us significant time and money because we did not have to hire a full-time programmer to develop the online database process. When compared to the annual fee for Faculty180, the cost of a full-time programmer would be significantly higher."

"The assistance provided by the technical staff is prompt, courteous and all part of the annual fee."
